Frequently Asked Questions

What is the INDATA Depot? The INDATA Depot is one of the services of the Indiana Assistive Technology Act (INDATA) Project at Easterseals Crossroads in Indianapolis, Indiana. The INDATA Project is one of 56 federally-funded projects of its kind in the United States and its territories that focuses on helping people with disabilities learn about and utilize assistive technology. In addition to device demonstrations, device loans, and a wide variety of training opportunities, the INDATA Project provides this equipment re-utilization program, which is designed to make computers and assistive technology available to more people and reduce Indiana's medical waste related to this kind of equipment.

How does the Depot work?

Many times, users of assistive technology no longer need a previously used device. We collect those used devices, clean them up, fix them up and give them away to people with disabilities who live in Indiana, need the technology, and can't afford it in any other way.

What kinds of technology do you handle?

We re-utilize many kinds of assistive technology, medical equipment and computers. Examples include: wheelchairs, canes, crutches, walkers, feeding equipment, communication systems, magnifiers, adaptive toys, desktop computers and laptop computers.

How can I tell what items you currently have available?

We are a state-wide program and our inventory is constantly changing. For those reasons we enter our entire inventory into an Internet-based database. With this database, you can investigate all of the items we have available before making a visit to our location to pick up your item or before delivery is arranged. Visit www.EasterSealsTech.com and click on the "Equipment Exchange/Depot" link.

What does INDATA do with items that can't be used?

Sometimes the items that are donated can't be re-utilized by our program. Those items are passed on to one of our partner organizations. Some of them take medical devices to third world nations; others recycle these items for valuable raw materials.

How much do the items cost?

For qualified applicants, all items are free. However, cash donations support the program and are always appreciated.

How do I qualify to receive items from the Depot?

Qualified applicants meet three criteria:

- They are residents of Indiana.
- They have a documented disability.
- They are not eligible for other funding sources for the item received

How do I apply?

Just contact us and we'll forward an application. Also, you can download one from our web site: www.EasterSealsTech.com. Once your application is approved you will be notified with your next steps to receive equipment.

What documentation of disability is required?

In order to qualify for our program you must have a documented disability. Examples of documentation may include: a physician's prescription, a letter of determination of disability benefits, or similar documentation. (Please note: Applications are considered incomplete without documentation of disability.)

How can I donate equipment?

Give us a call and we can make arrangements for you to drop off the equipment at the Depot or at one of our partner locations around Indiana. In some circumstances, we can even arrange for pickup at your location.

Where are you located?

Computer-specific questions:

What kind of computer can I get?

We rely on donated computers to supply this program. Desktop and notebook computers are often available, but the kind of computer you receive may depend on our inventory at the time. The computer will include a Microsoft Windows operating system as well as Microsoft Office software and a free anti-virus program. Also, you may request free-ware or demonstration versions of some assistive technology programs. Please indicate your needs on the application.

How soon can I get a computer?

Our computer reuse program relies on donations. The amount of time you wait for a computer varies and is directly related to the number of computers that are donated to our program.
